

Amy Suiter Clarke

AUTHOR + SPEAKER

 amy@asuiterclarke.com

 www.asuiterclarke.com

 Melbourne, Australia

Workshop + presentation topics

Advocacy and creative practice

- Creativity as resistance/activism
- Writing critically for a better world
- The power of rage
- Unmasking religious, high-control environments
- Critiquing the true crime industrial complex
- Dismantling white supremacy from the inside

Writing/genre skills

- Identifying twists versus reveals in thrillers
- Landing an agent by nailing your pitch
- Finding your creative flow and routine
- Turning your big idea into a book
- Building a new character
- Discovering the heart of your story

Education + training

Kingston University, London

- Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing
- Postgraduate Certificate in Learning and Teaching in Higher Education

University of Northwestern - St. Paul, Minnesota

- Bachelor of Arts in Theater

Invite acclaimed thriller author Amy Suiter Clarke to speak at your school, university or writing event. With a background in higher education and a Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing, Amy has the teaching skills and publishing experience to create unique, engaging workshops and presentations that will get people excited about the possibilities in their own writing and creative practice.

Published novels

About the author

Amy's debut psychological thriller Girl, 11 was an Amazon Editors pick for Best Mystery, Thriller & Suspense and received praise in The New York Times, Mystery and Suspense Magazine, CrimeReads, Book Riot and more. Her second novel Lay Your Body Down was a New York Times Book Review recommended thriller and People Magazine must-read thriller of the summer.